

Sports Teams Of The Past

Traces of sprinting as a team sport extend back several thousand years – as evidenced in images in the cave in Lascaux in France which depict people running after animals or vice versa; this was an issue of survival of the fittest.

Fast forward to modern times, and our memories are filled with sports teams—teams we followed as kids; teams we grew up with; hometown teams with our favorite players.

Many have since fallen by the wayside for various reasons; some have changed locations or become affiliated with different leagues—the Brooklyn Dodgers immediately comes to mind.

Every once and awhile, I run across an old sports team cover, most I've never heard of; some, I didn't realize went that far back in history.

They're nostalgic and certainly part of the ongoing saga of sports in America.

