

KNOW YOUR COVERS!

Click Matches, compared to other types of matchbooks, are definitely an oddity. For one thing, they're Italian-made matchbooks. The other thing is that they open at the top via curved ends, one end closing over the other and producing a soft 'click' sound. Hence, the name.

They were produced c. 1949-1950s; One rarely hears about them within collecting circles, but some collectors do keep them as a category. Andy Anderson, MO, had 62 back in 7/96.
